Cabo Verde NDC<sup>23</sup>

The 2021 Cabo Verde NDC recognizes children and young people as a vulnerable group that must be prioritized in climate action, including through data-driven research and specific strategies. For instance, it plans to systematically collect gender-differentiated and disaggregated data to identify gaps, needs, achievements and opportunities for children and young people — especially in rural communities — and report on updates every other year onwards.

The NDC also commits to Action for Climate Empowerment for children and young people. In doing so, it recognizes them as valuable stakeholders and agents of change in identifying and responding to climate change hazards; in safeguarding natural resources; and in sharing their knowledge of economic, social and environmental resilience. The NDC includes a dedicated section on young people, and highlights strategies throughout, such as to:

- ▶ Increase resilience through young people's participation and engagement in climate-related issues, climate policy and implementation.
- ▶ Create a network of youth associations (per island/ municipality or city) as a focal point for young people's participation in climate action by 2022.
- ▶ Enhance young people's skills in information technology (IT) and languages.
- ▶ Promote employment opportunities for young people in the fields of renewable energy, sustainable tourism, forestry, conservation and entrepreneurship (such as in the sustainably- and locally sourced products business, bike repair and other businesses).
- ▶ Provide risk data and information by 2023, such as setting up early warning systems with recognition of the differentiated impacts most vulnerable groups (women, youth and people with disabilities) face during disasters.
- ▶ Set up and provide special incentives by 2025 for young people to enter a public agricultural financing and credit program to promote regenerative, circular agricultural systems.

Consultative Participation: Saint Lucia NDC<sup>32</sup>

Saint Lucia is actively involving children and young people in climate decision-making. In 2020, UNICEF facilitated a consultation with young people and the Department of Sustainable Development of Saint Lucia. The young people presented their views on the revision of the 2016 NDC. They advocated for the country to sign the Declaration on Children, Youth and Climate Action, launched by several governments and young people at COP25 (see right).<sup>33</sup> Before and since signing the declaration, the Saint Lucia Government has been active in making its climate and environment policies and processes child sensitive.

- Envolver jovens profissionais por meio de estágios, trabalhos em cooperação com consultores, etc.

Collaborative Participation: Costa Rica NDC<sup>36</sup>

In Costa Rica, UNICEF, the Vice Ministry of Youth and young people have developed an alliance for climate action to create spaces for youth participation in the different phases of the NDC process. To support Costa Rica's NDC updating process in 2020, young people from different groups benefitted from training sessions by UNICEF on the NDC basics and how to contribute to the updating process. UNICEF also supported young people in dialogue with NDC decision-makers and in building child- and young people-focused proposals for inclusion in the NDC. UNICEF, the Vice Ministry of Youth and young people are now advocating to institutionalize youth participation in the NDC process, including the next update and in its implementation.
